FACULTY OF APPLIED SCIENCE & TECHNOLOGY

Apprenticeship Training Programs

Sheridan's apprenticeship training in skilled trades is nationally recognized.

Sharpen your skills in your trade.

Full and part-time training

We offer block release (full-time) and day release (part-time) training in apprenticeship programs, including:

- Construction and Maintenance Electrician
- Construction Millwright
- General Machinist
- Industrial Electrician
- Industrial Mechanic Millwright
- Plumber

First-class facilities

All of Sheridan's apprenticeship programs take place in state-of-the-art facilities equipped with the most current industry-standard equipment. You'll put theory learned in the classroom into practice on machinery and equipment similar to what you'll use in the workplace.

First-class instructors

You'll also enjoy lots of interaction with your instructors, who are all seasoned journeypersons with many years of industry experience. Our faculty know what it takes to succeed in the workplace, and how to pass on that knowledge to the next generation of tradespeople.

Admission Requirements

Program Eligibility

The requirements for apprenticeship training courses offered at Sheridan are as follows:

- Must be employed in the appropriate skills sector and registered as an apprentice with the Ministry of Training, Colleges and Universities.

Refer to the website for full admission requirements.

Career Opportunities

Sheridan's skilled trade apprenticeship programs involve approximately four years of off-the-job (in-school) and on-the-job (at the workplace) learning. During this time, students build their knowledge and hone their skills in a specific trade.
