Sustainability

In 2021, Sheridan was recognized as the EnVisioneer of the Year by Danfoss, a global supplier of energy-efficient solutions, for developing innovative energy savings systems. Sheridan uses pre-engineered, factory-built energy transfer stations (ETS) in its recently upgraded district heating system.

We reduced our annual natural gas consumption by more than 280,000m<sup>3</sup> — which equates to an annual greenhouse gas emission reduction of 530 metric tonnes.

Sheridan was named the sole Canadian International Green Gown Award finalist in the Benefitting Society category for its Sustainable Development Innovation Ecosystem Project. The Green Gown Awards, supported by UN Environment Programme, recognize the exceptional sustainability initiatives being undertaken by universities and colleges around the world.

| Highlights from 2021

Improving the experience of international students in our communities

Sheridan joined forces with the City of Brampton and a network of government and community partners to convene a roundtable with the goal of making Brampton a best-practice leader in supporting international learners. Sheridan also supported international students through the creation of internships, co-ops, bursaries and paying jobs, thanks to the generosity of donors such as Scotiabank.

Encouraging more diversity in the arts

We partnered with NBCUniversal to provide bursaries and creative project grants for Honours Bachelor of Film and Television students who identify as Black, Indigenous and/or from a racialized community, and created a Virtual Production Micro-Credential program with WarnerMedia Access. 2021 also saw the launch of Theatre Sheridan's First Drafts initiative to incubate diverse stories.

Supporting our communities through impactful research

Sheridan's research teams worked with industry and community partners to deliver creative and collaborative solutions to real-world challenges. From the development of an animated virtual agent, to introducing bee colonies on campus, our researchers helped find answers to issues that matter.

Contributing to Canada's largest vaccination effort

Sheridan teamed up with community partners to host several COVID-19 vaccination clinics at our Davis Campus in Brampton to support Canada's largest vaccination effort. Plus, we hosted GO-VAXX buses at all three campuses.

Three Olympic athletes become Sheridan students

In a global first, three athletes from the International Olympic Committee Refugee Olympic Team became Sheridan students after competing in the Tokyo 2020 Games, through an athletic pathway of the World University Service of Canada's long-standing refugee program.

A reclamation of space

Sheridan Honours Bachelor of Craft and Design (Furniture) students designed and built furniture that reflected local Indigenous stories and values for the Thunder Bay public library.
