Wave 2: COVID-19 Employee Engagement Survey

November 12, 2020

Dear Colleagues,

Every day, I think about the ongoing challenges that this pandemic continues to pose for students and employees who call Sheridan home. While we once thought that Fall 2020 or January 2021 would render COVID-19 a concern of the past, the virus is only gaining traction. This is further catalyzing a pressing need to innovate and focus on our priorities.

In that spirit and to support Sheridan's longer-term recovery, I am inviting you to participate in the next COVID-19 employee survey.

Our goal is to solicit feedback on Sheridan's overall response to the pandemic, the effectiveness of our communications, the challenges inherent in working remotely or on-campus right now, and how Sheridan can support you -- particularly as the pandemic wears on. Your insights will inform how we might alter or amplify existing supports to help employees remain healthy and engaged during this time of unprecedented disruption. As always, you can be assured that all responses will be completely anonymous; only aggregate results will be shared with our community.

I hope that you will dedicate a few moments to complete the survey now. The survey closes on November 26, 2020.

In closing, let me reiterate that this ongoing crisis is serving to underscore the value of post-secondary education. I remain of the view that it's our best hope for personal, economic and societal transformation.

Thank you in advance for sharing your honest feedback, so that we can continue to navigate these incredibly challenging times together.

Warmly,

Janet Morrison, PhD
