Update: Winter Semester 2021

September 1, 2020

Dear [insert name],

As we get ready to begin the 2020-2021 academic year, a number of students have requested program delivery information for the Winter 2021 semester.

I'm writing to advise that we have not yet finalized the specific delivery mode for each program (virtual/remote learning or learning that includes some on-campus/in person activity). We have, however, adjusted the start date of the Winter semester to allow extra time for the re-tooling of curricula, should it be required. The semester will now begin on January 18, 2021 and conclude as planned on April 23, 2021. Reading Week will fall between March 1-5 inclusive. The updated 20-21 academic calendar is available online.

As you are likely aware, the incubation period for COVID-19 ranges and can last up to 14 days. It is imperative that we carefully assess the impact of in-person activity taking place on our campuses during the fall semester, beginning September 14. Over subsequent days and weeks, we will continue to review the precautionary measures and responding actions that we've implemented to protect people's health and well-being. Following our evaluation, and in consultation with Public Health units, we will make our decisions regarding Winter 2021 program delivery.

We remain committed to transparency and accountability. I appreciate that this information is a key to informing your personal planning. Please rest assured that program-specific delivery details about the Winter 2021 semester will be announced as soon as possible and no later than early October. Specifically, you will learn of your program's specific delivery mode prior to the Winter enrolment deposit/intent to register deadline.

Thank you for choosing Sheridan. Delivering outstanding programs in an environment that safeguards your health and safety remains our top priority. I wish you every success this fall.

Sincerely,

Dr. Janet Morrison
